

"We have shared the incommunicable experience of war. We felt, we still feel, the passion of life to its top. In our youths, our hearts were touched by fire."

LONGSTREET MONUMENT – 6 P.M.

From September to May, we meet on the fourth Thursday of the month at the GAR Building, 53 East Middle Street. Light refreshments and conversation starting at 7:00 PM., and the featured program beginning at 7:30 PM.

Our June, July, and August summer meetings are in the field starting at 6:00 PM, with the meeting location announced in the bi-monthly newsletter and on the roundtable website: www.cwrgettysburg.org.

Whenever treacherous weather is predicted, the CWRT President and Vice President shall determine by Noon on that day whether the program should be cancelled or not. Announcements will be made on television station WGAL and radio station WGET 1320.

The next regularly scheduled board meeting begins at 6:30 PM on Thursday, May 13, 2010 at the Avenue Restaurant.

The arrival of May will mean the last of our indoor programs at the GAR Hall until September. Scott Mingus will give his program on The Louisiana Tigers in the Gettysburg Campaign on May 27th. I know most of you have read some of Scott's books and articles and know he does excellent research, so this promises to be a great program. After this our next 3 programs will be outdoors and Bill Hewitt has lined up some interesting presenters. First Ron Hawkings will do his portrayal of General James Longstreet at Gettysburg in June. Next our own Joe Mieczkowski will conduct a Gettysburg town tour in July and in August Scott Hartwig will wrap up our summer programs with a topic still to be decided but knowing Scott it will be great no matter what he does. Check the newsletter for the time and the place to meet for these summer programs.

Message from the President
 by John Winkelman

One of the things our Roundtable has been very active in the last couple of years has been in preservation. Last year we participated in the "Adopt a Confederate Veteran" program at the Loudon Park Cemetery in Baltimore and we helped in the restoration of the James Wills painting for the Wills House. The officers and board of directors would like to continue our efforts and maybe do something on an ongoing basis. If any of our members have suggestions or ideas on where we can focus our effort please let me or any other board member know so we can check into it. Also if any of you have any ideas or suggestions for upcoming programs or there is something special you would like to see again let us know. Bill Hewitt has done an excellent job over the past year lining up speakers but he is always looking for other presenters.

It's hard to believe that it has been one year since I assumed the office of president for the GCWRT and for me it has been a very rewarding year. It is very easy to be the president of an organization if you have good officers and board members working with you and in this case I have been very fortunate and I know the coming year will be just as rewarding.

John

DID YOU KNOW?

During the peak year of 1862, an estimated six thousand blockade runners defied the U.S. Navy to enter and leave Confederate ports. The value of the goods brought to the seceded states from England and Europe during the entire conflict has been estimated at around $200 million.

145 Years Ago

May 1, 1865, Monday

President Johnson ordered the naming of nine army officers to make up the military commission to try the eight accused Lincoln assassination conspirators. It had been ruled by Federal authorities that they were subject to trial before a military commission rather than a civil court. Those accused and held in prison were David E. Herold, who had been with Booth, George A. Atzerodt, Samuel Arnold, Lewis Powell (aka Lewis Paine), Michael O'Laughlin, Edward Spangler, Mrs. Mary E. Surratt, and Samuel A. Mudd. In Chicago thousands thronged to the courthouse to pay last respects to Lincoln, lying in state.

May 4, 1865: Surrender of Confederate forces of Gen. Richard Taylor

At a conference at Citronelle, AL, some forty miles north of Mobile, Gen. Richard Taylor surrendered the Confederate forces in the Dept. of Alabama, Mississippi, and East Louisiana. As in the other surrenders, officers and men retained horses they owned and the men signed paroles. Abraham Lincoln was buried in Springfield, IL.

May 10, 1865: Capture of President Davis

Early in the morning Federal troops surprised the encampment of President Davis near Irwinville, GA. President Davis, Mrs. Davis, Postmaster General Reagan, presidential secretary Burton Harrison, and a few others were taken into custody.

June 9, 1865: Friday

Another serious explosion of ammunition occurred. At Chattanooga, TN an ordnance building blew up when set afire by a locomotive on a siding nearby. Casualties were put at about ten.

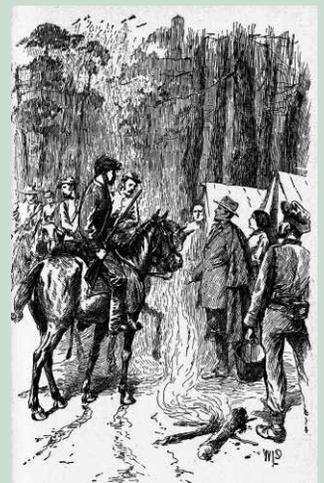

June 23, 1865: Friday

President Johnson declared the Federal blockade of the Southern states, in existence since April 1861, at an end.

June 30, 1865: Lincoln Conspirators Convicted

After a lengthy trial the military commission sitting in Washington found all eight alleged Lincoln assassination conspirators guilty. Dr. Samuel Mudd, Samuel Arnold, and Michael O'Laughlin received life sentences, while Edward Spangler was given six years. David Herold, Lewis Powell, George A. Atzerodt, and Mary E. Surratt were sentenced to be hanged. An outcry went up over the decision to execute Mrs. Surratt and several efforts were made to have the sentence changed, but to no avail.

The Cashtown Inn

This is the fourth in a series of articles, contributed by roundtable president, John Winkelman, on the inns, hotels, taverns and stores that were in Gettysburg and the surrounding communities during the battle. —Ed.

On Old Route 30 on the west side of Cashtown stands the old Cashtown Inn. In the late 1790's Andrew Miller had a log house and barn on this site but in 1804 he will sell his property to Peter Mark. This will prove to be a good move on Mr. Mark's part because in 1812 a new turnpike, extending northwest from Gettysburg to the Cashtown Pass will go past his property and this will prompt Peter Mark to build a new 2 story brick building which he intends to use as a tavern. In 1815 Mark will apply for and be granted a tavern license and will open "Mark's Tavern" or as it was sometimes known "Mark's Stand."

In the early 19th century bartering was a common way to do business especially in the rural areas but Peter Mark wanted nothing to do with bartering, he wanted cash only and as time went by and folks became aware of Mark's practice they started referring to this area as Cashtown and the name stuck. So while other towns in Adams County would be named after taverns or tavern keepers Cashtown will get it's name for Peter Mark's business practice.

Peter Mark will own his tavern until his death in 1845. Moses Smith will buy the tavern from Mark's heirs in 1847 and he in turn will sell it to Henry Mickley in 1854. Henry's son Jacob Mickley will be the proprietor in 1862 and 1863 and it would now be known as "Mickley's Hotel."

During the Civil War "Mickley's Hotel" will be visited by the Confederate Army twice. First in October 1862 during JEB Stuart's second ride around the Army of the Potomac, Stuart will ride east from Chambersburg using the Chambersburg Pike. Crossing South Mountain Stuart's men will be helping themselves to horses and other supplies and will come to Mickley's Hotel. After their departure Mickley's barn has been stripped of everything plus he has lost 200 gallons of liquor and decanters.

In July 1863, during Lee's invasion of Pennsylvania, the hotel will be the center of activity in the Cashtown area. Confederate officers will stay at the hotel and some accounts have A.P. Hill using it for his headquarters. General Lee will meet Hill in front of the hotel on July 1st to find out what the gunfire off to the east is all about. Jacob Mickley will put on his damage claim "The entire rebel force under General Lee came down the Chambersburg Pike, passing within 20 feet of my bar room door."

After the Confederates leave Mickley will tally up the damage. He will claim the loss of a horse, a wagon, a steer, 50 chickens, mill stuff, 100 young apple trees and 480 gallons of whiskey and brandy!

Apparently by the fall of 1863 Jacob Mickley has had enough and will place an ad in the Star & Sentinel on October 20, 1863 describing the hotel and lists it for sale. Daniel Heintzelman will buy the hotel in 1864 and with his wife Mary will run it until 1890, the Heintzelman's though will not be bothered by any more Confederate invasions.

During the 20th Century the old hotel will go through various owners, at times becoming rundown until it is finally restored by the Buckley family in the 1980's. Today the old inn still serves as a B&B and fine restaurant, a reminder of those days when Lee's army marched into Adams County. 🍷

A Special Bonus for Roundtable Members

Pharoah's Army, A Song About the 48th Illinois Volunteer Infantry

Carl Funk has graciously granted his permission for us to include his song, Pharoah's Army in the newsletter and also on the Roundtable website. Enjoy. –Editor

Carl Funk is the lead singer and guitarist for a group out of the Pacific Northwest called The Halyards (www.thehalyards.com). He has been a lyricist with the New York based band, The Brandos, and co-wrote the song Gettysburg with David Kincaid.

Funk wrote the music to Pharoah's Army after seeing the lyric, which was written by his brother, Mark Funk. Mark was inspired by his childhood spent listening to Time-Life albums of period Civil War music, an ongoing fascination with history in general and the Civil War in particular.

Also, the Col. Haynie referred to in the song's opening line is Col. Isham N. Haynie, a distant relative of the Funk's, who recruited the 48th Illinois in autumn, 1861.

Playing the pennywhistle on Pharoah's Army is Mr. Kincaid, who has released two critically acclaimed compilations of music written by Irish-American songwriters during the Civil War.

Click on the link below to hear Pharoah's Army. You can also go to the Roundtable website and listen to it there.

A Short History of the 48th Illinois Volunteer Infantry

by David A. Stumpf, M.D., Ph.D.

The Forty-eighth Infantry Illinois Volunteers was organized at Camp Butler, Illinois in the month of September 1861, by Colonel Isham N. Haynie.

The Regiment left Camp Butler, for Cairo, November 11, 1861, nine hundred strong, and, after its arrival, constructed barracks for winter quarters. {It} was the first Federal regiment that formed a line of battle in Tennessee at Fort Henry in February 1862. The ensuing battle with repeated charges, one retreat, then victory, cost the regiment 40 killed and wounded.

They then moved with Gen. McClelland's Division to Savannah and Pittsburgh Landing. On April 6 and 7, bearing their full part in the battle of Shiloh, half the unit was lost, killed or wounded.

Next was the siege of Corinth, then garrisoning at Bethel for about 6 months. Haynie was promoted to Brig. General and the unit was assigned to the Sixteenth Army Corps. They participated in the rear guard operations at the siege of Vicksburg, then moved with General Sherman to Jackson, Mississippi.

In the siege and charge, they lost another 45 killed or wounded. They then traveled north to Memphis, before receiving orders to march 400 miles to Chattanooga. After the battle of Missionary Ridge, they were ordered to Knoxville. Without rations, blankets or overcoats and only half with shoes, they marched 270 miles. Blankets, jackets and trousers were used to protect their feet from the sharp rocks and snow.

They then moved to Scottsboro, Alabama, barely recovered; there 90% re-enlisted as Veteran Volunteers. They were furloughed for 3 months in Illinois. Reassembling in March 1864, they moved over two months to Georgia. They participated in the siege of Atlanta in July and August of 1864 and moved with General Sherman on his "March to the Sea."

They made their way up the coast to Washington, D.C., then to Virginia, to Louisville, Kentucky. On June 25, 1865 they were moved to Little Rock, mustered out on August 15th and moved to Camp Butler, Illinois for final discharge August 21, 1865. They had marched 3,000 miles and moved 5,000 miles by water and 3,450 miles by rail.

"I have served my country under the flag of the Union for more than fifty years, and as long as God permits me to live I will defend that flag with my sword, even if my own native state assails it."

Winfield Scott, April 1861, to a Virginian Committee sent to offer him the command of the forces of his native state after it had passed a resolution of secession. When a committee spokesman began to describe the rewards of wealth and honor that Virginia held out to him, Scott stopped him. "Go no farther. It is best that we part before you compel me to resent a mortal insult."
